Every day, there are frightening stories in the news about active shooters. If an event occurred, what would you do? Do you have the information and confidence you need to help prepare for, survive and recover from an attack? Join us for a seminar to hear advice from Allied Universal's Regional Director of Training, Russell Mallette, CPP (via video presentation) and Regional Trainer Albert Carrillo, who will share detailed information and preparedness tips relating directly to your neighborhood, workplace or community.

Topics include:

- Active shooter trends, profiles and case studies
- Evaluating your workplace and preparing a plan
- Considerations surrounding options-based response, improvised weapons and shooter psychology
- Disciplinary and termination policies, access control and response practices

PLEASE NOTE: PowerPoint for this presentation is not available as a handout due to the program's proprietary nature.
